The Sabbath day has witnessed our entry into Coffeeville. We came prepared for bat-ile. But unlike our approach of the 5th, we were unopposed. We now have quiet pos-session, have a Provost Marshal, and are run-ning the town on approved principles. At 10 e-cieck last night, Col. Wentworth was called in consultation as to the new arrangements, but I understand repudiated them. He is still opposed to the extension of the city limits; some say because he has a large amount of valuable property outside which would be brought within the corporation. He claims, however, that this property is all rented for the taxes, and that he is opposed to the extension because it would drive the slaughter houses, tanneries, distilleries, gine factories, etc., entirely away from Chicago. They must locate upon the river, and the prospect of being perpetually charged with committing a nuisance would compel them to move perhaps for miles away. He may be in favor of a few of the new arrangements. I believe he goes for the appointment of a Counsellor by the Mayor at a fixed salary in lieu- of the present method of hiring law advisors when a case comes up. He also opposes the plan of having the Mayor held over, not because he is a candidate himself, but because he thinks the people about not be determed from John would not touch the mayor off, without the police. "NEORY AND MOREING."—Our readers will not forget that Rev. Robert Collyer delivershie famous lecture, "Night and Morning," before the West Bide Young Mon's Union Club, this evening, at Wamer's Hall. The speaker is too well known in this community to need endorsement. He is an carnest, sealy ons, eloquent advocate of Freedom and the Right, and no man has labored more assiduously and faithfully than Rev. Robert Collyer for those great principles. His locture will be found an able, eloquent and scholarly production, fell of great truths and earnest appeals upon the lessons of the hour. Every man should hear it.

cofore mentioned a little article called "Eng-sish's patent Heat Controlling Valve," that by the sheer force of its intrinsic merits, has already become well and favorably known to this community. This valuable invention can be applied to any store, and will save from 35 to 50 per cent. in the consumption of either wood or coal. With the present prices of fuel, this announcement will we think receive from housekeepers the consideration that the sub-ject deserves. The cost of the Valve (or more properly "compound damper") is only $1.35 which places it within the reach of all who have stores. B. F. course. That part of it west of Lake Michigan is alone capable of making fourteen States as large as Oblo and vastly richer and more productive. In regard to this to joint, he was a few years since riding through Illinois with a company of the first pomologists of the country, and he asked these experiences gentlemen how much of that land they wanted to live on, or in other words how much it would take on the average to support its man. Mr. Barry, one of the distinguished proprietors of the Rocchester (N. Y.) Nursernes, said a half-sere was ample, and none of them put it higher than an are. If that he correct a very simple calculation will show that Illinois will support some thirty millions. Lower will, support some thirty millions, will support some thirty millions for the seally overshelmed at the glorious future that is before us. It is the mission of pourself, Mr. President, and the members of this convention, to clothe the millions of the Northwest. Breet hour that your machine saves to the mother is so much gained for the intellectual and moral instruction of her children. What mind can estimate the value of this fact since upon the future destines of our people.

The appaler had just heard an interesting and scholarly lecture from the very Reverend Cathobic Bishop of Chicago, detailhis order.

Yes, gentlemen, you come to Chicago and assemble in convention, to know our invention better. At the same time we are sending measurers to the crowned heads of Europe to instruct them after.

You know the world rotates, and that machinery which operates the the nearest to nature, best succeeds. Our planets rotate. Hoe's printing press rotates. Our government—a chinery which operates the the nearest to nature, best succeeds. Our planck rotate. Hoe's printing press rotates. Our government—a good one, may she be a stable one—belleres in rotation; officers rotate in and out of office. Our sewing machine rotates. This is becoming of interest to every American home. This is the only machine in the worlddhald does rotate, and that makes a lock stitch. The lock-stitch, gentlemen, you know does not rip. While the crowned heads of Europe are examining and admiring our rotating machinery and its operations, may they not examine and investigate a little farther, and admire the excellencies of a Rotating Government. We will sell the crowned heads of foreign countries our machines, but the people, the lovers of our glorious Union, will never, no never, yield to them one iots of our blessed Government. And should they please to interfere with our little domestic troubles, with the operations of our Rotating Government—we would 'lock stitch' them right speedily. At this stage of the proceedings, C. H. Wrigst, of Delinque, amnounced that the delegates to the Convention desired to give expression to their respect and kindly feelings towards Mr. Chittenden, by presenting him with a gift processed for the purpose. This testimonial consisted of a sphendid stiver pitcher, beautifully engraved, two goblets, and a suitable calver. The formal presentation was made by Judge J. D. Platt, of Warren, Ill., who accompanied the act with a few appropriate remarks expressive of the high extern in which the recipient of the service was held by the delegates.

In reply, Mr. Chittenden sold:

Ladies and Gentlement: who have so kindly pre-sented this beautiful service, I tender you my thanks. This is thoroughly mexpected. I have no speech to make. From my heart of hearts, I thank you. thank you.

The pitcher is of the most chaste and beautiful design. Upon its surface is the following inscription:

"Presented to Geo. R. Chittenden, by his agents, as a token of their esteem for him, as a gentleman, an enployer, and a bisiness man."—Chicago, Dec. 19th, 1962.

[The service was made by Messrs. Hoard & Hose, of this city, and cost $185.]

Next in order came the reading of tossis and the speeches in response thereto. The sentiments prepared for the occasion were read by C. H. Wright, Secretary of the Convention, and P. B. Ring. The tossis and response come in the following order:

The informal meeting of the delegates, on Thursday evening, at the Tremont House, was fitting feast to the successful Convention. The delegates from abroad, together with numerous lavited guests, both ladies and gentlemen, belonging in the city, assembled at eight o'clock, and ofter a few moments' delay, the company were subsered into the specious disinghall of the Tremont, the feative scene being cell included by the finest orchestral music from the Great Western Band. When the guests had all been seated at the tables, Rev. W. W. Everis, D. D., offered a brief but appropriate prayer.

We can give no better description of the collation prepared on this occasion, than by inserting the bill of fare, by which it will be seen that Hessars (age, Bra. & Drake, made every needful provision for the physical wants of the guests. We have never seen a better prepared or a more tastefaily arranged dinner than that provided by mine hoats of the Tremont, on this interesting occasion. The following is the BOLL OF YARE.
